

Enterprise-Grade Information Security

The information security environment of the modern organization is, in a word, challenging. Data sources abound as do the threats arrayed against them. Yet all too often the very security processes put in place to identify and mitigate against such threats are themselves compromised by poorly conceived planning and execution.

That's where we come in. Aplura is an experienced information security consultancy with a proven track record of creating the kinds of tailored, flexible solutions our government, private sector and institutional clients need to meet today's rapidly evolving compliance and threat detection environments.

Our name, Aplura (from the Latin for more numerous), speaks directly to our mission of helping customers harness the intelligence contained in all of their data. The result is a complete picture of their security posture.

With years of experience in the IT, data management and information security fields, Aplura's team of certified specialists focuses on:

- Security Data Management
- Enterprise Engineering
- Incident Management
- Security Consulting
- Assessment and Auditing

Aplura prides itself on being nimble, fast, and highly responsive to client challenges, and we are known for our ability to routinely extend the capacities and effectiveness of products far beyond their original intent.

Fast.
Responsive.
Nimble.
