

Q: Why are so many organizations recognizing the power of Splunk?

A: In a word: Aplura

It's no secret that Splunk is rapidly becoming the global solution of choice for organizations seeking an efficient, effective approach to managing, securing, and tracking their machine data.

Less well known, however, are the seemingly endless ways Splunk can be leveraged to deliver the kinds of operational intelligence modern organizations depend upon to maintain a positive security posture.

That's where Aplura comes in.

As a trusted Splunk professional services and systems integration partner since 2008, Aplura has become Splunk's de facto team for helping its government and public sector clients understand and make the very most of their Splunk investment.

From systems planning, implementation and modification to execution, analysis and reporting, Aplura ensures that every Splunk engagement is tailored to meet – and exceed – client expectations.

Indeed, as seasoned integration and professional services experts with an encyclopedic mastery of Splunk's capabilities, Aplura enjoys a reputation not simply for tailoring Splunk solutions to the unique operational requirements of each client, but also in extending the technology's capabilities in exciting and innovative ways.

SPLUNK ON STEROIDS

Adhering to Splunk's established Deployment Methodology, Aplura follows a full lifecycle regimen including planning and analysis, implementation and testing, education and staff augmentation, and reporting.

The result is an organization capable of mining, recognizing and using machine-generated business intelligence to, among other things:

- Identify and respond to emerging trends
- Improve service
- Reduce operating costs
- Recognize and mitigate security risks
- Improve compliance
- Innovate with new products and services

Located just outside Washington, D.C., Aplura has conducted a range of Splunk engagements with Civilian, DOD, Intelligence, State and Local agencies. Aplura staff are particularly well-versed in systems and security and have an unparalleled understanding of Federal operations, their information security requirements, and the threat environment(s) they face.

"We didn't think we'd need even three days of professional services with our Splunk deployment. But we were so happy with the value Aplura delivered we ordered 20 more days' worth. Way to go!"
